

The Late State Fair.
 "O'd B." in the Hartwell Sun: The fair was a great success. The stock, poultry, machinery, agricultural im-ments, and in fact every department was perfect; but we were not surprised, for what Atlanta cannot do is not worth doing. It was estimated that there were 25,000 persons on the ground on Thursday. The best of order was maintained. We never heard an occasion or saw a man under the influence of liquor. We have been in many of the cities of the United States and have never seen one except Atlanta where everybody was polite.

agreeable to strangers. Then just think of removing the capital from the great city of enterprise, intelligence and hospitality to a dreary old burg in Milledgeville, where a legislator would be likely to take the jim jams witho drinking a drop of whisky, cut his throat and leave his wife a widow and his children orphans! If there was any other reason the people should vote for Atlanta on the score of economy, to save the expense of removal, as Atlanta has proffered to furnish a capital for a big empire, then, world, be merciful!

A new era has dawned upon us and we want no old moss covered graves and houses to remind us of the past. Let us go to work to build up a capital for the great empire state of the south that all Georgians will be proud of.

A Washington Belle

Mrs. Schenck, daughter of Jere L. Black, is one of the most beautiful women I ever saw. She is tall, slender, dark-complexioned, with a dark crimson glowing in her cheeks, big, dangerous eyes, black as sloes—eyes trained to deal destruction by their delicious glances; regular features, iron-gray hair, an animated face—a woman, who in the prime of life has more than the girlish beauty, combined with the ease of which years of society, travel and admiration has given her—a woman who will always be surrounded by devoted followers, whether she remains the widow Schenck or becomes the step-mother of the dazzling blonde who now does the honor of Don Cameron's man-

A Neglected Liver.
The bile has a three-fold part assigned to it by the great manager, Nature. It is a solvent for the food, it is the great solvent of the digested masses, acts as a solvent upon the the digestive process, acts as a color agent of the blood, and is essential to the evacuative function. When the liver grows torpid, or complete chaos ensues in the stomach and bowels, the bile is injected into the circulation in large quantities, and constipations and indigestion are produced. Pains under the right shoulder blade, and through the right side, headache, vertigo, yellowness of the skin, furred tongue and nausea also follow. But these and other symptoms of biliousness, and the disorders which accompany it, are entirely removed by Hostetter's Stomach

The Constitution.

ATLANTA, GA.

SATURDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 27, 1877

ROUNDABOUT IN GEORGIA.

—Marietta proposes to make an effort to secure a free engine.

—About eleven hundred bales of cotton are stored in Hawkinsville.

—Captain W. W. Paine, of Savannah, has been appointed commissioner to take testimony.

—A man named Lancaster attempted to shoot his brother-in-law, who is a preacher, in Hall county the other day.

—The Eagle says Gainesville isn't afraid of having her city scrip counterfeited.

—Troup county is boasting over a calf that has a tail like a rabbit—a small white tuft of wool.

—The white belles of Blackshear sit out on the front steps and chew sugar cane by the millions.

—Hon. W. O. Tuggle, of LaGrange, is not a candidate for senatorial honors.

—Several attempts have been made recently to fire the gin-house of Mr. Mosely Cleveland, of Henry county.

—Pete Nolan, of Henry county, aged fifteen is said to be the champion banjoist of the state.

—Mr. Randolph, living near Jefferson, lost his dwelling-house by fire on Saturday night, including two bales of cotton.

—Mr. Duncan McArthur, father of Hon. A. G. and Hon. Walter T. McArthur, died recently in Montgomery county.

—Col. Jones, of the Macon Telegraph, proposes to "dissect" Col. Hammond's "facts as to the capital and cotton."

—We advise Col. Jones not to use a knife and fork.

—Richard Hightower, of Henry county, picked four hundred pounds of cotton in one day recently, and a little boy thirteen years old picked three hundred pounds at the same time.

—The Covington Star says that Daniel Edwards, an old negro, who lives within the incorporation of the city, will make nine bales of cotton and corn enough to do his family of six. He only worked one mule.

—The Gainesville Eagle has added to its other attractions a department of mining. It will be in charge of Mr. Wm. W. Habersham, a gentleman of culture and of great experience in mining.

—The Hawkinsville Dispatch adds another epithet to campaign literature. Words such as "purity," "purity" sounds right nice, but hanged if we can overtake the meaning of it.

—The Marietta Journal says: Millidgeville proposes to build a new hotel at once for capital accommodations. If the place intends to keep up with Atlanta's progress, she will have to build several hotels, quite a number of street cars, and several new railroads.

—Mr. McCollum, a lawyer, and three brothers named Brassell, waked up Brooks's station the other day by indulging in a regular war. Pistols were freely used until finally McCollum engaged one of the brothers in a rough and tumble tussle, coming out ahead of the game.

—A Spalding county man shot a negro in his corn-field the other night and thinks he killed him. There were two others in the field, and it is supposed that they have either buried their fellow thief, or if he is not dead, that they have placed him where he can't be found.

—It is said that our friend Furman is telling it around in upper Georgia that the typhoid fever is prevalent in Atlanta. Well, this is about as much truth as its basis against Atlanta.

—Troup county fair will open next Wednesday in LaGrange. If it is not a success, it will not be the fault of the farmers. Troup is one of the leading counties of the state and her people generally succeed in whatever they put their hands to, and it is to be hoped they will not fail to make their exhibition, which the Reporter says is merely a prelude to others, a notable success.

—If Atlanta has such a powerful influence over legislatures, why is it that none of her members have ever presided over the senate or the house of representatives? And why is it that none of citizens have been elected secretary of the senate? There must be a piece of spelled cheese somewhere in Denmark. Col. Jones, of the Macon Telegraph, should look into this. It will never do to allow mere facts to refute his able arguments.

—Jimmie DeVotie, of the Columbus Enquirer, says there wasn't a decent display of products at the state fair. Well, there were right good samples of products at the fair and a great variety of them. The most sanguine never for a moment entertained the idea that the farmers were going to drive all their live stock to town or put their granaries on wheels. But the fair was a right good one, Jimmie.

—Waterman, of the LaGrange Reporter, puts it this way: The burden of the song now is "two millions." All the writers of the state, who are ashamed to sign their names to their articles, say a new capital must be built, if Atlanta is selected, and it will be worth two million dollars. These anonymous wise-acs have no idea that a fine capital can be put up for anything short of a fabulous sum. We can assure them, if the capital remains in Atlanta, there will be a fine capital erected, it will cost inside of $250,000, and the state won't have a cent of it to pay. Now, then, is not our assertion more reasonable than theirs?

—Let's go and see the manatee," said Triplett to a lady visitor at the Tennessean fair the other day. "See the man at tea?" inquired the lady, with a startled look. "Yes," said John, smiling blandly, and feeling somewhat triumphant; "it is one of the greatest curiosities ever seen." "Have you been invited?" asked the lady, more puzzled than ever. "Oh, that isn't necessary," responded Triplett, beaming with hospitality and remembering a free ticket he had in his vest pocket. "Well, I don't mind," said the young lady, with a little sigh, "but I can't imagine what a man wants to take tea in public for."

Dr. Tutt's Pills.

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE PUBLIC

New York, October 18, 1877

I have devoted twenty years of patient study to the liver and its relations to the human body, and the result of that study is the production of

TUTT'S LIVER PILLS.

Their popularity has become so extended and the demand so great as to induce unscrupulous parties to counterfeit them, thereby robbing me of the reward, and the sufferer of the benefit.

TO CAUTION THE PUBLIC.

And protect them from vile imitations, I have adopted a new label, which bears my trade-mark and is the only one in the world of the kind.

THE GEORGE TUTT PILLS.

These pills are the result of my study of the liver and its relations to the human body, and the result of that study is the production of
